Leaving Moab heading east on Sand Flats Road, you'll climb up into the La Sal mountains and quickly escape the desert heat. Along the way you'll pass several iconic 4wd trails such as Slickrock Trail and Fins n' Things, so feel free to explore. As the road starts to wind tighter you'll find yourself in dense pine and aspen forests along the incredible La Sal Loop Road. Stop at the Castle Valley overlook for spectacular views, and the Bull Canyon overlook for amazing scenery and dinosaur tracks.

Next, you'll connect with Polar Mesa and Hideout Canyon trails, which start to bring you back to the desert via rocky and sandy terrain with spectacular views on the descent. This section of the Kokopelli Trail eventually connects with Onion Creek, where you can enjoy dozens of refreshing water crossings. Once you hit pavement at Highway 128, hang a left and enjoy some spectacular canyon road riding on your way back to Moab.
